When the king's daughter reached the time of marriage, the king said that the only wisest animal would marry his daughter. The king told them the trick. The trick was that the only animal which would drink the hot water was going to marry the king's daughter. All animals feared but Mr. Hare did not. He said that he was going to drink the hot water in three minutes. The king gave him the pot of water and other animals laughed at him.

Mr. Hare lifted the pot of water and started telling beautiful stories. His plan was to tell beautiful stories as the hot water was cooling. All the other animals and the king enjoyed the stories and did not think of water cooling.
